Should you have any questions, please contact the appropriate assigned Claim Representative, or refer to the Claim Management Portal for additional claim details. You may also want to consider following up with your customer with a Farmers Family Review in the near future.

According to J.D. Power and Associates, an agent can enhance the customer’s claim experience by contacting the customer throughout the life of the claim. Connecting with the customer regarding their claim status makes them feel valued, which is a major contributing factor to NPS and has a positive impact on retention upon renewal. This has been identified as a best practice by J.D. Power and Associates for insurance companies that market and service their products through agent distribution channels.
